Untouchable

Parisian Philippe is aristocratic, rich, cultured, intellectual and quadriplegic. He can buy all the help he needs, but because he dislikes the pity that tends to come with it, he chooses as his carer the unqualified Driss, who only came to the interview because he wanted his jobseeker social security form signed. So begins an unlikely friendship, based on a true story, that brings brighter colours to at least two lives. With just the right blend of humour and sentiment, this is a film to bring a smile to February.

Saturday 26th March 2022 7.30pm

No Time To Die

The latest 007 nonsense with superb locations, breathtaking stunts, fabulous action scenes, new fellow spies and Daniel Craig himself, for the last time after sixteen years. All good fun and adrenaline and, for fans of old, lots of references to past glories to try and spot. Reel KFC regulars will doubtless burst into song when they recognise the actor playing the villain, no longer acting on behalf of Queen or country.

Saturday 30th April 2022 7.30pm

Snow Falling on Cedars

When a fisherman is found mysteriously drowned in his own net in the waters of Washington State, it is not long before the suspicion of murder that falls on Kabuo is exacerbated by the anti-Japanese feeling of the post-war period. As the worst winter in memory gets underway, Ishmael attends the trial, struggling to reconcile the fair-mindedness of the smalltown newspaper he inherited from his father with his own hurt, for it was Kabuo who took from him the childhood sweetheart he still loves. A beautifully atmospheric film of the superb David Guterson novel.

Saturday 24th Sept 2022 7.30pm

The Courier

Tom Hanks wasn't the only civilian to be recruited into cold war dealings with the Soviet Union (hardier Reel KFC members will remember our chilly showing of Bridge of Spies). In The Courier Benedict Cumberbatch plays Greville Wynne, a globe-trotting British businessman recruited by MI6 and the CIA to collect information from Oleg Penkovsky, who believed that the cold war was escalating into nuclear catastrophe, and was prepared to leak information to stop it. A rousingly effective old-school spy thriller, based on fact.

Saturday 15th Oct 2022 7.30pm

Westside Story(2021)

Steven Spielberg dares to update the 1961 classic movie of the 1957 Broadway show that updated Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet that wasn't the first to use the theme anyway, and the result is as energetically joyous and heart-breaking as musicals in their heyday always were, but fresh and modern with it. One to make you sing and dance the October blues away.

Saturday 19th Nov 2022 7.30pm

Belfast (2021)

Based on his own childhood, Kenneth Branagh's film, with lots of van Morrison on the soundtrack, shows how one little boy's home street is untouched by the troubles around – until suddenly everything changes. Then there are sides, and you must take one or leave. Jamie Dornan and Judi Dench are among the cast of this funny, tender, coming-of-age movie, mixing some warm-hearted twinkling blarney with a bit of nostalgia and a good measure of tragic reality.
